

Hosting Upgrade Appeal

Dear Visitor. The Tap has become increasingly busy and we can't stay online without your help. We need a hosting account upgrade to help cope with the increased activity and keep this free blog online. In this age of great change The Tap is a valuable independent resource where we can come together and share information the controlling parasites would rather we didn't have. Please help if you can and donate a small amount towards the hosting costs. Your donation will make a huge difference. Thank you in advance. Click here to donate

10. Chapelle resisted reeducation

Back in April, comedian Jim Breuer claimed that Dave Chapelle told him he was once “visited” by an unnamed elite group of people and told to ‘correct’ his views.

The apparent visit took place in 2005 after Chapelle's TV show became highly popular and before the comedian opted out of fame for close to a decade.

Comedian Says Dave Chapelle Was “Visited” to Have His Views ‘Corrected’

This goes some way to explaining Chapelle’s continued refusal to bow to the woke mob.

9. Elon Musk is Australia’s number one thought criminal

In April, an Australian Senator called for X owner Elon Musk to be jailed for life for refusing to adhere to the Australian government’s demands to remove a video of the brutal attack on a Christian Bishop in Sydney by a Muslim extremist.

Musk warned that no country should be able to demand national, let alone global content bans.

The X owner continued to resist Australia’s authoritarian demands much to the ire of the government and the Prime Minister there.

Ultimately Elon, and freedom of speech, prevailed.

61-Year-Old Man Gets 18 Month Prison Sentence For Chanting "White The Fuck is All"

The incident occurred at the height of the unrest following the murder of three children by an individual raised in the UK by Rwandan migrants.

Others were arrested and even jailed for social media posts and sharing memes.

6. Criminally charged for expressing 'anti-establishment' sentiments

During the same time, a 40-year-old man was arrested and criminally charged for social media posts that contained "anti-establishment rhetoric."

5. Jailed for distributing stickers

In March, a man in the UK, yes the UK again, was imprisoned for two years for the crime of distributing stickers that criticized mass migration.

While Sam Melia was locked up for 'offensive' stickers, the same judge gave a man who was caught in possession of child sex images no jail time.

Thankfully after a few months in prison, Melia was released and able to spend Christmas with his wife and children. But he'll forever be a thought criminal in the eyes of the state.

4. FBI visits Americans at home over social media posts

British people were not the only ones being interrogated for social media posts. In April videos emerged showing FBI agents apparently visiting people's houses to ask questions about 'offensive' Facebook posts.

3. Prison sentences for parents who refuse to let their kids go trans.

All the way back in January, it was reported that parents who refuse to accept their children identifying as transgender could face seven years in jail under a new law in Scotland.

2. Scotland's insane thought crime laws

Scotland had a hell of a year when it came to thought crime, with the government actually making it illegal to express thoughts it deemed to be hateful.

We are told the speed of light cannot be exceeded. What if that is wrong? What if Einstein was wrong and the theory of General Relativity is incorrect? Could that open up a whole new world of possibilities? In May 2025 The Alternative View returns to Glastonbury where Roger Anderton will be asking those questions and putting forward an exciting new model.
